Goat Speaks Diabetes Speaks Loudly In Quiet Desperation Platform

Kamari Hill is 16 years old and an 11th grader and is also working towards his Associates degree as a Dual Enrollment student. In addition to going to school, Kamari has a part time job. In addition to his part time job, he also takes great pride in speaking to various groups whether in person or on Zoom or as a podcast guest. He has a dynamic platform and speaks about his troubling experiences of almost dying from Diabetes. His goal is to educate the young and the old so that he can help change the lives of those that listen and want to change. Kamari lost almost 15 lbs this summer.
